DiscussIT Topic 6: Where is our country headed?

Discuss IT Topic: Over the last week, our country has had growing concerns on immigration bans, border safety, and executive orders that remind us of issues that have been plaguing our country for years. Now that Trump has been elected President, there has been people threatening to blow up the White House, human right protests, and a plethora of other sensitive subject matters that are very compelling to individual groups of people. Why have these issues come up now as we head into a time in which it seems no one is going to be happy with the outcomes? Will this create a split in this country and place citizens against one another when it comes to their views? In your opinion, what other topics are at the forefront of concern? Exaplin.

Response: Please make sure all grammar, spelling, indentation, and punctuation is correct.

The above-mentioned issues are coming up during current time because Clinton supporters did not think Trump was going to win. Not only did Trump win; he has also begun following through with his promises that got him elected.

I think the county will continue to be split on many issues because there are two different sides. You have the people that support Trump and the people that protest him. I do not think it will be an equal split since Trump was the winner of the election. People who voted for Trump wanted a change in government. Trump has already started with his plan to bring jobs back. Since Trump's election he has helped companies, such as Ford, to keep jobs in America. He has also let foreign countries, like China and Mexico, know the United States of America will no longer be abused on import and export taxes.
